

Look at the Horses Run

A collection of stories for Level - 29

By Clark Ness

Visit www.clarkness.com
for more free stories and ebooks.

Look at the   Horses Run

Look at the   horses run .

The  cowboy is after the   horses.

They all run fast.

The   horses kick up dust as they run.

The  cowboy goes after the   horses.

He kicks up dust with his  horse too.

They all run fast in the dust.

My Friend Called Me

My friend called me. He wanted to tell me about his day.

He went to a cool park and played on a big swing.

He had fun on this big swing.

He said when you are on this big swing it feels as if you are going up into the sky.

I am going to ask my mom if I can go and play on this big swing at that cool park.

One Day I Got a Cut

One day I got a cut.

I was sad.

I went to my dad.

He cleaned my cut.

Then it was better.

I am glad that Dad was there to help me.

He helped me feel better.

One Day I Went Up a Tree

One day I went up a tree.

It was not hard to do.

I could see a nest.

I went near it, and there were 5 eggs.

It was cool to see a nest with 5 eggs.

I then went back  down.

Soon a  bird landed and sat on the nest.

Pip the Dog

Last week Pip the dog sang a song to the moon.

"Pip, why did you sing a song to the moon," I asked.

"I wanted the moon to sing a song back to me," said Pip.

"I think I would sleep better if the moon sang a song to me," he said.

I do not think the moon sang a song back to Pip this past week.

This is My Father

This is my father.

He is cool.

We do things together.

We play together.

We see things together

It is fun to be with my father.

My father is neat.

Tucker and the Elephant

One day my friend Tucker went into his backyard. There was an  elephant.

Tucker grinned and grinned to see the  elephant.

The  elephant grinned and grinned to see Tucker.

Tucker and the  elephant played all day.

Soon Tucker had to go in to eat.

Tucker and the  elephant had a great day.

What Should I Do Today?

"What should I do today?" said Tucker the fish.

"You could go for a swim," said Peg.

"Peg, we are fish. All we do is swim," said Tucker.

"I think I will fly," said Tucker.

Tucker went and rented a  hang-glider.

He took it to a  waterfall and went off into the sky.

"Look! I can fly," he called to his friend Peg.

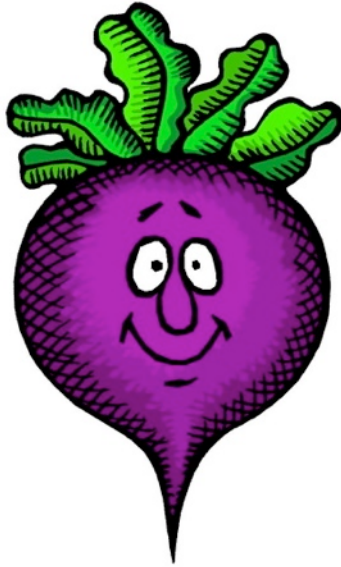

A Pig Could Fly

One day a pig called Yankee was by a stream. He was about to eat a little snack from his picnic pack when a rock that was near by yelled, "You, pig. What do you want to do?"

Yankee stopped where he was. He could see the rock. "I want to fly," said Yankee the pig to the rock.

"You want to fly? Well, that would be sweet," said the rock. Whoosh went the wind. Yankee had two wings.

"Thanks," said Yankee and from then on Yankee the pig could fly.

Yankee the Fantastic Beet

"Well, look at me," said Yankee the beet. "I am Yankee. I am one fantastic beet."

"Long ago, I was a little seed, but soon I was big."

"Then the deer wanted to eat me. They wanted to eat the green that was on me. Well, yesterday they started to eat me. It did not feel real grand."

"I began to get mad so I started to kick and kick. Soon I was free. I was free to go where I wanted to go. I ran from the deer and hid in the hills. It is sweet to be free," said Yankee the fantastic beet.