

Sarah the Cat

By Clark Ness www.clarkness.com

One day Mr. Ness was in his classroom.
A cat walked into the room.

"Hello, Mr. Ness," said the cat.

Mr. Ness looked at the cat. He was surprised.

"Who are you?" asked Mr. Ness.

"I am Sarah," said the cat.

"You can't be Sarah. Sarah is a girl," said Mr. Ness.

"But I am Sarah," said the cat. "I just know how to turn myself into all kinds of animals."

"Well then prove it and turn into a lion," said Mr. Ness.

Poof! Sarah was a lion.

"Don't eat me," said Mr. Ness when the lion looked at him.

"I am not going to eat you," said Sarah the lion with a laugh.

Poof! Sarah was a cat again.

"What do you do when you are a cat?" asked Mr. Ness.

"I do all kinds of things," said Sarah.

"I like to go fishing. Fish are fun to catch."

"Sometimes I climb up in trees."

"How do you get down?" asked Mr. Ness.

"Most of the time I just jump," said the cat. "One time a fire fighter came and got me down."

"I also like to play with string when I am a cat," said Sarah.

"I sometimes even like to drink milk."

"One time I was a space cat," she said.

"I went out into space. After that I got a lot of mail."

"I read my mail everyday," said the cat.

"I even got a letter from President Bush."

"I am glad you like being a cat," said Mr. Ness.

"It is a lot of fun," said Sarah.

Poof! Sarah was a girl again.

Sarah liked being a cat and liked being a girl.
