Angela.

“I will go and fly all around,” said Angela.

“I will then come back and tell you all about it,” she said.

“That would be nice,” said the cat.

So Angela went and flew all around.

She then came back to the cat.

Angela told the cat what she had seen.

The cat was happy.

“Thank you,” said the cat.

“You are welcome,”
said Angela.

Falling Star

One night Angela was outside with her dad.

"Help, help!" they heard from up in the sky.

"Look, Dad. A star is falling," said Angela.

"What should we do?"
said her dad.

"I know what to do,"
said Angela.

She ran and got a big net.

Angela took the net and quickly caught the star just before it hit the ground.

"Thanks for saving me," said the star.

"What should we do with this star now?" asked Angela's dad.

"We need to throw it back up into the sky," said Angela.

Angela grabbed the star out of the net and threw it back up into the sky.

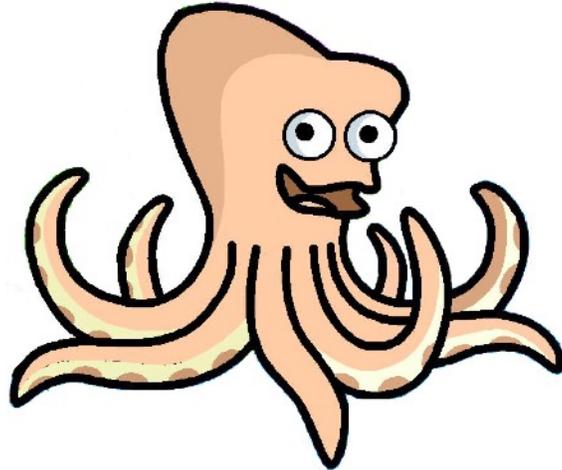

"Thanks so much," said the star from high up in the sky.

Angela was proud that she had saved a falling star.

Octopus

One day Angela woke up. She was an octopus.

“Mom, I am an octopus,” said Angela.

“That is nice. Now figure out what to do with your eight arms,” said her mom.

Angela thought and thought.

“I think I will play some music,” she said.

She got out a guitar and played it.

She got out a trumpet and played it.

She got out a drum and played it.

She then got out a maraca and played it.

“I bet I can play all of these at once with my eight arms,” said Angela.

She picked up the maraca. She put the drum next to her. She picked up the trumpet. She then picked up the guitar.

She began to play music with the guitar, the trumpet, the drum, and the maraca.

“Your band sounds great,” said her mother.

“Thanks, Mom. It is fun to be a one octopus band,” said Angela.

Basketball

By Clark Ness

“Good morning, Teacher,” said Angela as she walked into her classroom before school.

“Good morning,” said her teacher who was sitting at the teacher’s desk. “How can I help you?”

“I want to be a basketball,” said Angela.

“Why do you want to be a basketball?” asked her teacher.

“I think it would be fun to fly in the air and then go swish through the basketball net,” replied Angela.

“Okay you can become a basketball. Please come over here,” said the teacher. Angela’s teacher reached inside the teacher’s desk and pulled out the lucky buffalo coin. Angela walked over to the teacher’s desk. Her teacher held the coin above Angela’s head.

“Basketball, basketball, basketball,” said the teacher.

There was a loud poof, followed by some white smoke, and Angela was a basketball.

One of Angela's friends walked into the classroom just at that time.

“Do you want to go out and play basketball?” asked Angela the basketball. Her friend stopped right in her tracks and looked at the talking basketball.

“How can a basketball talk?” she asked.

“It’s me, Angela,” said Angela. “Our teacher used the lucky buffalo coin and turned me into a basketball.”

“Boy, you must have done something really bad for our teacher to turn you into a basketball,” said the friend.

“No, I didn’t. I asked our teacher to turn me into a basketball because I wanted to be a basketball,” said Angela with a big smile.

“You kids can go outside and play,” said the teacher. “You have about five minutes before school will start. Just remember to bring Angela back inside.”

Angela’s friend grabbed Angela the basketball and ran outside with her.

“Cool basketball,” said the other kids on the playground.

“It is just me, your friend, Angela,” said the basketball.

“Neat,” said the kids.

The kids all played basketball with Angela the basketball.

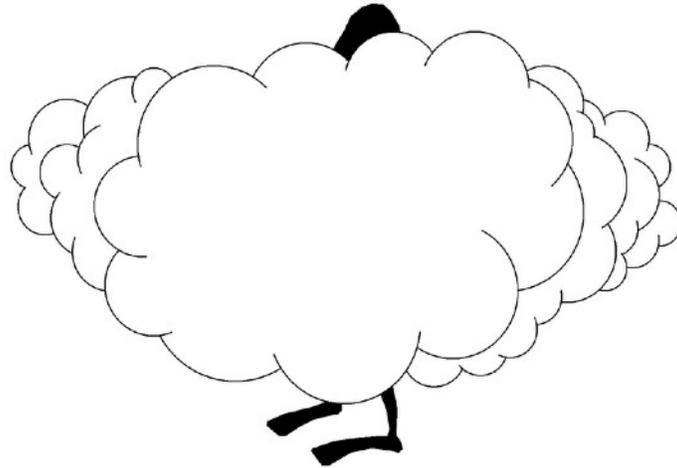

“Does it hurt being a basketball?” asked one of the friends.

“Not a bit,” said Angela. “Shoot me through the hoop again.”

One of the kids picked up Angela and took a shot. Swish went Angela.

“That sure is fun,” said Angela. “Thanks.”

The school bell then rang. Angela’s friend went back into the classroom with Angela and walked over to their teacher.

The teacher held up the lucky buffalo coin and said, “Angela, Angela, Angela.” There was a poof, then some white smoke, and Angela was Angela the girl again.

“Thank you. It was a lot of fun being a basketball. Maybe tomorrow I can be a baseball,” said Angela.

“I am glad you had fun. We can see about you being a baseball tomorrow. Now, time for school,” said the teacher.
